DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claims 3 and 6 are objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c) as being in improper form because a multiple dependent claim should refer to other claims in the alternative only. See MPEP § 608.01(n). Accordingly, the claims have not been further treated on the merits.

Claims 4, 5, 7 and 8 are objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c) as being in improper form because a multiple dependent claim cannot depend from any other multiple dependent claim. See MPEP § 608.01(n). Accordingly, the claims have not been further treated on the merits.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 1 contains a description of a real instrument corresponding to the dummy instrument of the invention, and recites limitations that "would" be present in this real instrument. The claim is indefinite, because it is not clear whether this real instrument is intended to be part to the claimed invention, and because limitations which "would" be present under some certain conditions do not give one of ordinary skill adequate notice as to the scope of the invention. Also, the language pertaining to a cable extending from a "control" is unclear because it is not clear whether this is intended to refer to the control body recited in line 2. "Control" is not a physical, tangible object. Also, in claim 1, line 11, "the angulation cable" lacks antecedent basis.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Cunningham.

Cunningham discloses in Figure 5b and in the specification a dummy medical instrument comprising a control body 89 with user manipulable angulation control, and an angulation cable 49 which extends through an umbilical 72 to a device which controls the resistance to movement to provide force feedback during use.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 3711

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cunningham in view of Alexander. Cunningham discloses all of the limitations of the claim with the exception of the pulley. Pulleys are a known component of force feedback simulators, as shown for example in Figures 5 and 12 and in the specification. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the relevant art to modify the device of Cunningham by providing a pulley for the purpose of enhancing the control of the cable. While Alexander discloses a pulley in an interface device instead of the instrument itself, this is considered to be an obvious variation on the disclosed prior art. Both locations have the same effect of allowing controlled movement of the cable.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Irion, Hon and Merrill disclose various surgical instrument simulators with force feedback mechanisms.
